 C0	As I mentioned earlier, I work for IPOR, together with researchers at the Malawi Epidemiology and Intervention Research Unit (MEIRU), New York University-Abu Dhabi, and the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine. We are conducting a study on the impact of COVID-19 in Malawi. In some countries COVID restricted peoples access to health services (including child health services) and we also wish to learn whether that has been the case in Malawi. Each month we call 1700 Malawians for a short interview and your telephone number has been chosen by chance. If you agree, I would like to ask you a few

Field	Question	Answer
	questions about yourself and any deaths that may have occurred amongst your relatives in the recent past. Your participation in this study is voluntary. The total duration of the interview is expected to be 20min. Your answers will help us better understand how COVID-19 has affected the lives of Malawians. Our discussions will include experiences of Covid-19 such as illness and the death of relatives. Remembering and discussing illness and deaths amongst relatives may cause feelings of sadness and you are free to pause or interrupt the interview at any time. If that happens, please do let me know. You can also choose not to answer some of the questions that I will ask you. I can also call you back at a later time or refer you to a trained counsellor. If you complete the interview, we will transfer 1000 Kwacha in mobile phone credit as an appreciation for your time. All the information that we will collect during this interview may be shared with other researchers, but only after we delete your name and telephone number so that nobody can link the information to you personally. I would also like to mention that some of the interviews that we conduct are recorded for quality assurance and for training new interviewers. These recordings will be deleted at the end of the study. At the end of the interview, I will also give you the contact details of the person who is responsible for this study as well as a list of places where you can get more information about COVID-19 and how you can protect yourself and your relatives. For any further inquiries, you can also contact the research ethics committee of the University of Malawi, at (265) 0524 222. Do you have any question for me at this point?

	COVID-19 is an airborne virus that can be transmitted between people, irrespective of whether they are showing or not showing common symptoms. It can also be transmitted from surfaces that people may have touched. After infection, symptoms may appear usually within 2 to 10 days and may include fever, dry cough, and difficulty in breathing, among others. Most people infected with COVID-19 will recover from the disease, but a small proportion will require hospitalization. In some instances, COVID-19 might also be life threatening.
	There are precautions you can take to protect yourself and others against COVID-19. You can:
 positive	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Stop handshakes; • Wear a mask completely covering your mouth and nose when near other people; • Maintain social distance with people (for example, avoid crowds, gatherings and prolonged indoor contact); • Stop touching eyes, nose and mouth; • Practice cough hygiene by covering mouth and nose with tissue or sleeve or flexed elbow when coughing or sneezing; • Stay at home if you feel unwell with any of the common symptoms; • Seek medical advice if symptoms worsen or do not improve; • Wash your hands regularly with soap.
	Although there are new vaccines helping to prevent infection or prevent onset of severe symptoms and hospitalization it is important to still maintain the preventive measures. These precautions are particularly important if you have underlying health conditions, are in old age and have obesity or diabetes. The current vaccines will help protect you and those at high risk.
